SENATE.

MADISON, Feb. 25.—The Senate had a bare quorum this morning. The business was mostly of a local character. The bill limiting the liability of fire insurance companies to three-fourths of the face of the policy where a total loss, was killed.

ASSEMBLY.

Bills were passed to authorize Milwaukee to issue bonds. To provide for a State arsenal and armory at Milwaukee.

Prohibiting contractors from being bondsmen for other contractors.

The bill to compel the sale of railroad tickets at three cents per mile, was indefinitely postponed.

There is nothing new in senatorial matters to-day. The greedy politicians who anticipated Carpenter's death and came here to work up a boom for some favorite candidate, have been pretty thoroughly sat down upon by a majority of the legislative wisdom, and have gone home to reflect over Sunday upon their scandalous and disgraceful proceedings.

A heavy rain storm accompanied by terrific thunder and lightning, visited this locality at noon and still continues.

THE SENATORIAL CONTEST.

Special to the Gazette.

MADISON, February 25.—Scarcely had the lamented Carpenter drawn his last breath when the contest opened for his seat in the Senate, and it is still going on. How it will end is a matter of uncertainty. Most of those who supported Sawyer are pressing the name of Senator Cameron, and they express a confidence that he will be elected. It is now said that he will consent to be a candidate, and the opposition openly claim that he is anxious to enjoy the honor of filling the vacancy caused by the death of Senator Carpenter. The friends of Colonel Keyes claim, however, that he cannot rely on all the support Mr. Sawyer received in the caucus in January, as several who voted in the caucus for him have expressed a preference for Colonel Keyes and will support him as against any other man that can be named.

Colonel Keyes will be a candidate for senatorial honors, but he will exercise wisdom in the matter and will make no effort to canvass his chances until after the funeral of the late Senator Carpenter. He has not been seen about the capital since Thursday when the city was thrown into mourning over the death of the great Senator, and for the deep respect he held for the dead and for the sake of his own honor, he will not enter into the senatorial contest until the proper time arrives.

Governor Smith has decided that he can not appoint to fill the vacant seat in the Senate until the Legislature selects a successor to Mr. Carpenter, and ex-Chief Justice Dixon concurs in the opinion that there is no law which gives the Governor the right to make an appointment.

There are those of the opinion that the Legislature can proceed to elect a Senator before the second Tuesday after the official notification to the Governor that there is a vacancy in the Senate, but the weight of opinion is that an election can not take place before the 8th of March, which will be the second Tuesday after the President of the United States Senate officially notified Governor Smith that Senator Carpenter had died.

AUTHORITATIVELY DENIED.

MILWAUKEE, February 25.—The report sent from Washington yesterday that Senator Carpenter's body would be cremated is authoritatively denied. The SENATOR CARPENTER.

Tribute to His Memory in the House of Representatives of the United States.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25.—The proceedings in the House to-day, relative to the death of Senator Carpenter, in full as follows:

The Speaker—As notice has been given that the Senate resolution in relation to the death of Senator Carpenter will be taken to-day, the chair requests that the House be in order, so that proper respect may be shown to the memory of the dead.

Mr. Hazleton—Mr. Speaker, it was arranged that my colleague, Mr. Williams, should call up these resolutions, and also submit a resolution for the House, with some remarks on his part with reference to the death of Senator Carpenter. The chair will remember that Mr. Williams was excused last night on account of twenty-four hours attendance upon Mr. Carpenter during his sickness. He is prepared to submit that resolution, and I think had some desire to do so; and it was in deference to his desire that his colleagues in the House agreed not to call up the resolutions until he was present. Unless it is considered as absolutely important, I would very much prefer that some arrangement would be made to give him the opportunity.

The Speaker—The only object the Chair had was that it would be more respectful, the Chair thinks, to adjourn on the day which the resolutions of this character come to us from the Senate.

Mr. Hawley—But, Mr. Speaker, that announcement having been made by the chair, and also the announcement of the purpose of withholding the resolution on the part of the gentleman from Wisconsin because of the desire of his colleague to present them would perhaps justify us in allowing the matter to lay over until 11 o'clock, so that Mr. Williams might be present and call them up himself.

Upon the resumption of the House at 10:30 o'clock, Mr. Williams called up the resolutions of the Senate, providing for a committee on the part of the Senate to take action in regard to the funeral, and amid the profound stillness of the House and with great feeling, said:

Mr. SPEAKER: Wisconsin has lost her most gifted son. She will weep at his open grave. The nation knows his greatness, and will mourn with his loss, and, at some future time to be appointed by the House, befitting words will be spoken to his memory and his worth. I ask the adoption of the following resolutions:

Resolved, That the House has received with the deepest sorrow the message announcing the death of the Hon. Matthew H. Carpenter, late a Senator of the United States from the State of Wisconsin.

Resolved, That, in addition to the Wisconsin delegation, a committee of five members of this House be appointed, who shall accompany the body of the deceased Senator to its place of burial in that State.

Resolved, That as a mark of respect for the memory of the deceased, the House do now adjourn.

Mr. Hazleton—I rise to second the resolutions just submitted to the House by my colleague. It is a sorrowful office which I perform in supporting the resolutions which announce to this House, and to the world, the death of the most distinguished citizen of my State and a leading senator of the Republic. Over his death-bed, Wisconsin bows her head in mourning, but a greater mourner is the nation, which he loved and served so well. Born amid humble conditions of life, upon his own merits, by the force of his own will and ability, he pushed his way on up until he became an honored member of that forum where the sovereignty of 50,000,000 of people find its highest and most illustrious representation, and then he died. At this high point of assured fame, of power, influence, and opportunity, he died. Eulogy upon his life and character is reserved for another time and occasion. It is becoming in us, and to his memory, that the resolutions be adopted.

The motion to adopt the resolutions prevailed, and the House therefore adjourned.

A DESPERATE THIEF.

The Rev. Dr. Smith Murderously Assaulted.

New York, February 25.—The Rev. Dr. John Cotton Smith, rector of the Protestant Episcopal church of the ascension, was assaulted by a thief and badly bruised. Dr. Smith was returning about 10 o'clock from a call upon a parishioner, when, upon reaching the corner of Twelfth street and Fifth avenue, a man who had been sitting on the coping which supports the iron fence surrounding the grounds of Dr. Paxton's First Presbyterian church rose at Dr. Smith's side, and, clutching at his wrist with one hand, dealt him a murderous blow with a short billy or club. The blow was so severe that Dr. Smith fell half stunned, and in falling caught on the iron railing. As he did so the thief managed to get his coat open and made an effort to tear his watch and chain from his vest. By a violent effort Dr. Smith thwarted his attempt, and some persons coming along at the time compelled the thief to abandon his purpose and escape.

CABINET TALK.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25.—Advices from Mentor indicate that the cabinet question is unsettled. There are various all on excellent authority, but the truth seems to be that if General Garfield has made up his mind, he and his friends have succeeded admirably in concealing the fact. It is believed by some that Postmaster James, of New York, will be postmaster general, and Wayne McVeagh, of Pennsylvania, attorney general. Others name E. W. Stoughton, of New York, for attorney general, and say the war department will go to Pennsylvania. Still others claim that if the treasury department be given to New York, Emory A. Stokes, of Chicago, will be attorney general, and James F. Wilson, of Iowa, secretary of the interior. All is conjecture, however, and the actual result probably not be known until General Garfield shall see fit to announce it.

FOUND ON THE TRACK.

Two Young Men Almost Frozen to Death Near La Crosse.

La Crosse, Feb. 25.—Two young men named James Benton and Edward Holway were found lying by the railroad track near this city this morning at seven o'clock in an unconscious condition. They were found by section men, who took them at once to a place of shelter, when it was found that they were badly frozen. Benton is still unconscious, and there is no hope of his recovery. He is badly frozen all over the body. Holway is frozen only on the legs and it is thought, will recover without loss of limbs. He is now conscious. Each is about twenty-five years of age, and they were forwarded last evening at a suburban town. Benton is unmarried and a mill laborer, and Holway is the nephew of N. B. Holway, a prominent lumberman of this city, and has a wife. It is believed that in trying to get home they were overcome by the combined effects of drink and intense cold.

PLYMOUTH CHURCH.

The Rev. Henry Ward Beecher as a Revivalist.

New York, Feb. 25.—The Rev. Henry Ward Beecher informed his congregation to-night that he had canceled all lecturing engagements, and proposed to begin a series of revival meetings in the church. He desired that Plymouth church should carry the church light above the world. He wanted to develop personal religion in the hearts of the people. He was ready to carry on the work and do all he knew to aid his people in the Lord's work. He did not want to work alone, but he had no fear of lack of sympathy. Daily meetings begin week after next.

EXTENSIVE ROBBERY.

MILWAUKEE, Feb. 25.—It was reported last night that the costly stocked store of Rich & Silber on Wisconsin street had been robbed of a large quantity of valuable laces, silks, and other fabrics which are easily carried off, and represent a large money value. Inquiries at the police headquarters failed to establish the report or disprove it. There is good reason for believing, however, that the robbery actually occurred. The robbery was accomplished by Chicago experts, who have been prospecting here for some time, but failed, until night before last, of accomplishing their contemplated raid. Last night the detectives arrested a man at the station, examined him, and then permitted him to depart. Inquiry as to the reason of the man's arrest failed to obtain any information other than that he was suspected of taking a sealskin cap, but afterwards he was shown to be innocent. Later information is to the effect that the store was robbed between 10 and 11 o'clock Wednesday night, and that entrance was effected from the rear of the establishment. The thieves had opportunity to work unhampered, and it is believed, succeeded in making a big haul.

OBITUARY.

PALMYRA, Wis., Feb. 25.—Mrs. Persis Marble Squires, wife of Dr. Wm. Squires, died of consumption at her home in Palmyra at 3 o'clock this afternoon, aged 64 years. Mrs. Squires was the last of her race, a lady of rare intellectual attainments, a valued friend and citizen, who prided herself on tracing her ancestors directly back to the Mayflower pilgrims. Her father, Manton Marble, fought and died in the war of 1812. Her only son, Captain Squires, yielded his life in battle during the war of the rebellion. The funeral is set for Sunday.

More Signs.

If you see a lady drop her glove and a gentleman by the side of her, kindly telling her to pick it up, you need not hesitate in forming an opinion that they are married, and if you see a man or woman's face all covered with blotches and pimples, you must not hesitate but tell them to use Spring Blossom. Prices: $1, 50c., and trial bottles 10c.

The Highest Active Volcano.

[From the N. Y. Times.]
Mauna Loa is said to be the highest active volcano on the globe. Its elevation, as ascertained by Lieutenant C. Wilkes—a native, by the way, of this city—during his exploring expedition 40 years ago, is 13,758 feet, though from the base, 40 miles distant, it looks like a smooth, regular hill, by no means imposing, clad half way up with forests, and rounded off at the top in the manner of a dome. The mountain has been built up from accretions by volcanic agencies, to which, in fact, the whole island—Hawaii—owes its origin; but it has, different from many volcanoes, no cone of ashes. It has a number of craters, both at the summit and at the sides, and new ones are continually forming. Kilanea, the old crater, is 9 miles in circumference, and 6,000 feet above sea-level. The terminal crater is some 15,000 feet long, 8,000 feet wide, and, on the west bank, is near 800 feet deep. Wilkes, who descended it, describes it as full of ridges from 10 to 50 feet high, alternating with deep chasms, beds of hardened lava, and smoke, and steam exuding fissures. The entire top of Mauna Loa is a vast expanse of lava, thrown out fluid, and now resembling a mass of metal with great beds of clinkers. During Wilkes' visit, Kilanea contained a lake of liquid fire, which overflowed and discharged in one night 12,000,000 cubic feet of lava, while a smaller pit poured out in 24 hours 2,000,000 cubic feet. Kilanea was long regarded as the abode of the goddess Pele, and the threads of hardened lava spray collected about it are called Pele's hair. During the eruption in January, 1850, three new craters were opened in the side of the mountain, the highest at 10,000 feet. From one of the lower craters rose a column of liquid lava from 200 to 500 feet high, which found its way underground to an outlet half a mile distant, and poured, in a cataract at white heat down a steep of 50 feet. The lava spread in a number of streams over the lower slopes and reached the ocean in 5 days, destroying a village in its fiery course. The meeting of the lava and the sea is said to have been a terrific scene. It continued to flow for 10 months, and on reaching the water, 40 miles from the crater, was still at a light red heat, and moved at the rate of 2 or 3 miles an hour, the stream being in some places 5 or 6 miles wide.

AGRICULTURE AND HORTICULTURE.

To the Editor.

As I generally make it convenient to attend the winter session of the State Agricultural and Horticultural societies, perhaps a few items thereto may not be out of place in the columns of the Gazette. Since these two societies have made the practice of holding joint sessions, there has been a marked interest and an increased attendance by our progressive farmers throughout the State—indeed, the interest has increased to such an extent that the societies by joint resolution, ask of our legislators to vote for a larger appropriation, to publish an increased number of the "transactions" for distribution among the farmers, who call or send for them. Members and others into whose hands the volumes are placed are aware of the fact that the papers presented at our winter meetings, and the discussions thereon, are from our most practical and intelligent agriculturists, and horticulturists, men who by experience are able to present facts which are of interest to all in like calling. Though the convention lately closed was perhaps more largely attended than any former meeting, yet there are hundreds of farmers living within a three hours ride of Madison who never attend. One man said to me a year ago, "Since I have attended these conventions I have nearly doubled the products of my farm by raising clover." Now it is not expected that every man can so much increase his wealth, but there is very much to be learned by their interchange of thought which helps over many a hard spot. Among the numerous topics presented at this session the two papers on "Forest tree planting" and "Eucalyptus and the Silo" were perhaps the most important. If we do not now feel the scarcity, or see the necessity of protecting our forests the time is not far distant when our State, and Nation must take active measures not only to promote, but absolutely enforce by penalty the preservation of such sorts as are of commercial value. The paper on "Eucalyptus," by Hon. I. C. Sloan, was exhaustive and comprehensive in its details of the new method of preserving green fodder for the entire winter months; and if dairymen are to counteract this "oleomargarine" business by producing always a better article than they now do at least expense, this winter feeding from the "silo" may be the way to accomplish it. This system though new for this State (as there are now only two or three in successful operation) is no longer an experiment, but a well demonstrated fact; and I am informed that the Hon. Mr. Sloan will build an extensive silo the coming season on his farm, and from the interest manifested on the subject hundreds will be put in for next winter's feeding among our dairy farmers.

This communication has already exceeded intended limit, but I must say a word about the fine display of fruit had in connection with the Horticultural meeting.

The number of varieties presented was much larger than ever before for this season of the year, and some sorts showed a greater state of perfection than had ever been expected. There were a number of plates of Famense on exhibition, which for high color would vie with the Hyslop crab, and to all appearance were as fair and fine as the day they were picked. The premium list for winter display of fruit was somewhat increased, and modified so as to induce the bringing out of choice new varieties in the way of seedlings, and possibly we may find a "Wisconsin" apple.

Many of the new Russian varieties are now fruiting, and next winter we expect to see a large display of these sorts adapted to our soil and climate.

RESCUED FROM DEATH.

The following statement of William J. Conghlin, of Somerville, Mass., is so remarkable that we beg to ask for it the attention of our readers. He says: "In the fall of 1876, I was taken with a violent bleeding of the lungs, followed by a severe cough. I soon began to lose my appetite and flesh. I was so weak at one time that I could not leave my bed. In the summer of 1877 I was admitted to the City Hospital. While there the doctors said I had a hole in my left lung as big as a half dollar. I expended over a hundred dollars in doctors and medicines. I was so far gone at one time a report went around that I was dead. I gave up hope, but a friend told me of DR. WM. HALL'S BALSAM FOR THE LUNGS. I laughed at my friends, thinking that my case was incurable, but I got a bottle to satisfy them, when, to my surprise and gratification, I commenced to feel better. My hope, once dead, began to revive, and to-day I feel in better spirits than I have the past three years.

"I write this hoping you will publish it, so that every one afflicted with the lungs will be induced to take DR. HALL'S BALSAM FOR THE LUNGS, and be convinced that CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED. I have taken two bottles, and can positively say that it has done more good than all the other medicines I have taken since my sickness. My cough has almost entirely disappeared, and I shall soon be able to go to work." Sold by drug stores.

Personal.—Mr. Isaac B. Hasbuck, of Skaneateles, N. Y., writes: "I have been troubled with bronchitis, for years, and Thomas' Electric Oil is the only medicine that would ever take effect; one dollar's worth has entirely me. I have used it for several other afflictions, and have always found it to have the best results. After once using the Electric Oil, no one will be without it. It is more fully described in regular advertisements; see another column.
